Amendments to the Specification:

Please replace the paragraph beginning at page 5, line 8 to line 24, with the following rewritten paragraph:

A1

--The method of this invention is also contained in a computer program product for interactively generating an index page dialogue window. The computer program product includes program code adapted for:

displaying a window including a list of index page types; displaying a window including a list of index line types upon selection of one index page type in the list of index page types;

displaying a token string including a plurality of tokens, upon selection of one index line type in the list of index line types, wherein the plurality of tokens includes only tokens appropriate for the one index line type; and displaying, for at least one token in the plurality of tokens, user selectable attributes for data associated with the at least one token.--